An open letter from the Science Fiction and Fantasy art community to the Science Fiction and Fantasy art community.

Sexual harassment, sexual assault, and abuse of power has no place in the world much less within the artistic community. With the actions of artists Noah Bradley and Sam Flegal coming to light, we are all painfully aware that this type of behavior has been going on for far too long. It has had a detrimental effect on the careers of many creators in our industry, the lives of victims, and the community at large.

We unequivocally condemn these violations against the victims while acknowledging that the problem is much, much larger.

We unequivocally condemn the culture of silence and complicity that has allowed these behaviors to occur, kept these experiences from being shared, and continues to keep victims from coming forward.

We unequivocally condemn the use of any place of business (conventions, workshops, etc.) as pick-up grounds for established professionals who would use their prestige to prey on less established artists who are just trying to get a toehold into their career.

We praise and support all victims, especially those that have chosen to share their testimonies despite concerns of retaliation and career damage. Sharing their experiences should never come with the fear of reprisal.

Many conventions and workshops have pledged to address these issues, yet they cannot control, regulate, or supervise every party and interaction. So, it falls on every individual in this industry to make this community a safer and more inclusive place for everyone by creating spaces and opportunities for voices to be heard, holding perpetrators accountable, being more diligent in our actions, and treating all individuals with respect.

By sharing this, I pledge, alongside others, to this statement and to be an active member of this movement.

Agarrate Saxo.pdf Presentation Abstract: Agarrate Saxo is a dramatic and emotional work that has caught the attention of audiences in Europe and South America. The play follows three families, two rich and one poor, who come together to bury their past and begin a new life. The work has been performed in over 35 countries including France, Finland, Sweden, Germany, Russia, Ukraine, Lithuania, Bulgaria, South America and the United States. The play was originally written in French and subsequently translated into English, Spanish and Russian, making it the first play written in French to be performed in the United States. The performances have sold out and broke box office records in many cities. Agarrate Saxo is the first play to be produced on Broadway in the last 30 years. Agarrate Saxo has been called “the most emotional and exciting play of our time” (Frank Rich, The New York Times) and “one of the most magnificent pieces of work ever written in modern French” (Barbara Tuchman, The New Yorker). One critic described it as “a sublimely moving work of art” and another as “the most exhilarating play I have ever witnessed.” The New York Times called the play “a triumph of the human spirit.” It was called “a triumphant work of art” by the New York Post and “a finely crafted drama” by New York Magazine. Elegant and provocative, Agarrate Saxo is a “re-creation of our times” (Daily Telegraph) and an “haunting and thought-provoking work of art” (Sunday Times). Agarrate Saxo is an emotional story of three contemporary families. The play opens in an elegant but dilapidated house on a rainy day. There, a young mother and her two teenage daughters discover their parents’ body in a remote bedroom. They conclude that their father is a pedophile. At the same time, the mother discovers that her husband had been having an affair with their daughter. Two families separate, each convinced that it is the only one that is broken. A strange pact unites them, for they have something to hide, something more shameful than their parents’ death. A secret that no one will talk about. This secret and the imminent threat of being found out cause the three families to confront 82157476af
